

It has been more than one year since the A-7s were retired world-widely and this great book came into our hands. It is an essential walkaround guide of the SLUF prepared for modelers but fits also the needs of any aviation enthusiast who indeed happens to admire this mighty aircraft.

The A-7E/H and TA-7C/H in Hellenic Air Force Service

Written by Dr. Andreas Zeiliter and Andreas Klein

Published by AIRDOC

This is an A4 sized landscape, softcovered book. It is bilingual written in both English and German text. In its 72 pages of content you will find over 250 full coloured photos.

This walkaround details the status of the A-7 Corsair II or lovingly called 'The SLUF' in Hellenic Air Force service. In the book the reader will find a 2000 word introductory text, describing the development and the final technical changes of the fighter-bomber. This is followed by 20 pages of action photographs divided by units.

Over 40 pages are dedicated to the modeler and contain superb and hitherto unpublished close-up images of the following:

- Radar
- Cockpits
- Landing gear
- Engines
- Most recent armament
- Fuselage details
- Camouflage schemes etc.

Purchase the book: here

Here some demo pages in pdf for download: