

Photos of Hellenic Air Force's F-16 block 52+ flood the internet a few years ago. That meant to be the Q: Hello Mr. Tokunaga and thank you very much for accepting our invitation for this interview.

“... about 50 countries and 50-60 different first jets
I have accumulated almost 1,400 hours on military

Q: How many different countries have you visited? How many different aircraft types have you

Q: Is there any particular Jetraiger 200 that you consider as your favorite and if yes, which is it about?

Q: Have you attended any Pilot training lessons? I'm finished. I'm traveling 300 days a year, and is c

Left : Katsuhiko Tokunaga pilot given as gift during the Scale 1/48 of the F-16 F-15

Q: Flying with a military Jet is demanding by itself. When you also have to take off by a heavy camera

“You don't need special equipment nor special talent.
Do it safely and efficiently are the keys.”

Q: 1 Knowledge , 2 Equipment and Plan-Planning, 4 Talent. If someone asked you to give a weight

Q: Do you have any favorite (not necessarily Aviation) photographer? more technical thing.

Q: Some people fly. So what kind of pilot are you like? Are you a pilot like a pilot or a pilot like a pilot?

"Hellenic Air Force pilots are very very professional. It was the great pleasure to work with them."

Q: A few years ago you had the chance to fly with Hellenic Air Force F-16s. How was it?

Q: Was pre-planning and briefing for that photo session a bit of a challenge for you?

Q: Greek pilots are seen to have the reputation that they are one of the best trained pilots in the world. Did you get any sense of that when you were in Greece?

Let's since we are talking about patches do you wear patches while flying or have you got any patches and a few months ago the new F-16B and F-22A were delivered to the 6th Air Wing

A present from Katsuhiko Tokunaga for the www.airforce.gr visitors.